

On April 30th, pupils in Year 10 took part in a fieldwork trip designed to develop their understanding of urban and coastal environments. They collected first-hand data using a range of geographical techniques, including beach profiling and environmental quality surveys. The day also offered a valuable historical perspective, as pupils experienced the Clifton Lift, once a Victorian innovation that significantly improved quality of life for residents and visitors to Southend.

